ORNAMENTAL LINERS

ZEELAND, MICHIGAN PProspect 2-2126

A climate in your favor . . .

Michigan's West Shore enjoys a freedom from really cold weather throughout the winter months--which spells hardier evergreens for you because of the minimum winter injury. And too, this means that West Shore can provide you with varieties that cannot be grown in many other less well-situated areas.

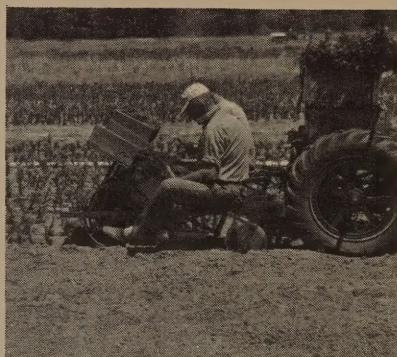

Good soil . . . kept that way!

All West Shore stock grows and gets healthy in some of the finest sand soil in the entire United States. We're located in real evergreen country, and keep the soil at its nourishing best with regular, programmed fumigation, spraying and fertilization.

Modern methods, less handling

The strong fibrous root systems of West Shore stock is no accident. Much of the plants' good health stems from the use of the latest and most modern plant handling equipment. All transplanting is carried out rapidly with the finest balling and transplanting machinery available.

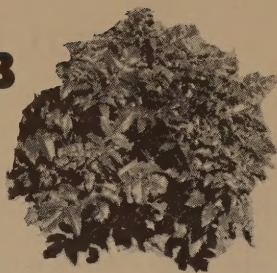

Special care with your order

Guarding quality right to the point of delivery is, and has always been a basic West Shore policy. The illustration to the right shows the loading of a large order on a specially decked truck that protects plants from damage and breakage.
